CORPORATE COMMUNICATIONS

Effective corporate communications presents a consistent brand, identity and message to the world.

When your organization’s brand is applied to print-based collateral, that collateral becomes an extension of your Corporate Identity. Ensuring that every communications vehicle results in consistent messaging and positive brand recognition requires experience in Corporate Communications design and great creative talent.

OUR SERVICE

Akendi’s graphic design experts are experienced in developing attention getting Corporate Communications collateral. Our talented graphic designers create eye-catching, unique and memorable printed materials that help to convey and reinforce the client’s intended message.

We provide organizations and corporations of all kinds with professional design for annual reports, sales and marketing collateral, tradeshow materials, brochures, sales sheets, direct mail and more.

Duration

On average, Corporate Communications projects range from two to twelve weeks in duration.

CORPORATE COMMUNICATIONS

OUR APPROACH

Our trademark Experience Thinking™ process informs all of our design activities. We begin by working to fully understand your needs and goals, your brand, and who you are trying to reach with your corporate communications. We also research your competitors’ communications materials and brand to determine how best to establish a unique voice for your collateral.

Our design process is iterative and collaborative, providing you with choice and input. We challenge our creative concepts against the project goals as well as the audience needs and expectations. We then use our proven design process to create relevant and visually interesting design to give the brand voice, foster understanding and allow you to engage your audience, creating memorable solutions.

As a full-service graphic design and user research firm, our broad range of capabilities range from annual, sustainability and strategy reports, brochures, direct mail and trade show materials to websites, intranets and mobile and web applications.
